Pathologists' Assistant Compensation Report - Canada & U.S. (2025-2026)

The typical base-level pathologists' assistant (PA) median starting wage is CAD $44.50/hr (about $89,700/yr) in Canada and USD $46.29/hr (about $96,300/yr) in the U.S. The table below gives the national figures; regional and provincial/state detail follows.

Country (sources)	Statistic	Min $/hr	Mid $/hr	Max $/hr	Min / yr	Mid / yr	Max / yr
Canada, CAD (24)	Average	$44.36	$49.83	$55.30	$89,387	$100,409	$111,431
	Median	$44.50	$50.38	$56.11	$89,657	$101,511	$113,062
U.S., USD (33)	Average	$50.22	$60.98	$71.74	$104,454	$126,839	$149,224
	Median	$46.29	$57.93	$68.27	$96,283	$120,500	$142,002

- Starting pay is similar in both countries in nominal terms. Median range minimums are $44.50 CAD and $46.29 USD. The gap opens at the top of the range: the U.S. median range maximum is $68.27 vs. $56.11 in Canada.
- Figures are shown in each country's own currency and are not converted.

How to read this report

- What a new graduate can expect. Most new grads start at or near the Min column, which is the first step of the pay scale. Mid is the midpoint of the scale, and Max is what a PA typically reaches after about 6-8 years of step increases. For a realistic first-job estimate, look at Min, not Mid.
- Median vs. average. The median is the middle source and is less affected by one unusually high or low employer, so it is usually the better figure to rely on.
- Sample size. The number in brackets (n) is how many sources make up a figure. Where n is 1 or 2, the figure reflects one or two employers, not necessarily a provincial or state-wide rate.
- Canadian and U.S. figures are not directly comparable. Each country is shown in its own currency. Before comparing, account for the exchange rate, cost of living (especially on the West Coast), the cost of U.S. health insurance and benefits, and the work authorization and certification requirements for working in the U.S.
- Negotiating. Many Canadian PA positions are paid on a unionized grid, so starting pay is set by the collective agreement and there is usually little room to negotiate. U.S. posted ranges are set by the employer and are often negotiable.
- Timing. Collective agreement rates are current as of November 2026; some job-posting rates date from late 2025 or earlier in 2026. Some collective agreements may update rates in early 2027, so confirm the current scale with the employer when you apply.

- Total compensation. This report covers base pay only. Shift and on-call premiums, overtime and benefits can add substantially to total pay.

This report was compiled from publicly available collective agreements and job postings for general information only. It is not an official salary survey.

Methodology

Every figure is base hourly pay for the entry-level PA classification, taken from a collective agreement or a posted range from October 2025 onward.

- Sources. Where PAs were identified to be under a unionized agreement the agreement's current PA scale is used, and it counts as one source (even if multiple postings cite it). Individual Ontario hospitals had variable PA rates and not an identifiable overarching agreement (even if some PAs may be unionized within this province) so each hospital's latest posted range counts once. U.S. figures are employer-posted pay ranges (i.e. not unionized postings).
- Base level only. Where a scale has a PA I / PA II split, only PA I is used (e.g., APL PA I vs PA II). Senior, lead, charge, supervisor and PA II roles that sit above a base PA level are excluded.
- Titles. Any title whose duties are PA work counts: Pathologists' Assistant, Pathology Assistant, Surgical Pathology Assistant, Pathologist Assistant I, and NL's "Laboratory Technologist III". Morgue-attendant, autopsy-only, lab-assistant and "pathology technician assistant" roles that do not gross or who only gross level 1-4 specimens (e.g. biopsies) are excluded.
- Base pay only. Shift, weekend, on-call and other premiums, sign-on bonuses, overtime and benefits are excluded.
- Ranges. Each source contributes a minimum (starting step), a maximum (top step of the regular grid) and a midpoint. Long-service steps or pay that only start after 20-25 years are excluded (e.g. AB’s 2% LSPA, BC's 25th-year step, NS’ 25-year step), so the maximum is what a PA reaches after the typical progression, usually 6-8 years. A single posted rate counts as both its minimum and its maximum.
- Weighting. One source equates to one data point. This is not weighted by headcount (see caveats).
- Annualization. Canada: hourly × 2,015 hr (7.75 hr × 260 days), applied to all Canadian sources so annual figures compare like for like. Where a source states shorter hours (Newfoundland & Labrador: 70 hr biweekly), actual annual base pay may be lower than shown; see the province notes. U.S.: hourly × 2,080 hr. U.S. postings quoted annually were converted to hourly at 2,080 hr.
- Regions. Canada: Western (BC, AB, SK, MB), Central (ON), Atlantic (NB, NS, NL). U.S.: the four Census regions, plus West Coast (CA, WA), East Coast (Atlantic seaboard states NY to FL, including MD) and Interior (CO, IL, OH).
- Currency. CAD for Canada, USD for the U.S., not converted.

Appendices A and B list sources with rate and date notes. Some of the source job postings may no longer be live.

Canada (CAD, 2,015 hr)

Ontario and the western provinces sit within about $0.70/hr of each other at the median midpoint ($50.48-$51.19/hr). Atlantic Canada trails by about $4/hr. Most provinces outside Ontario are represented by a single agreement, so each province figure reflects that one scale.

Province-specific notes:

- Newfoundland & Labrador. The NL Health Services posting lists "70 bi-weekly (8-hour days)," which is 35 hours a week or about 1,820 hours a year. The exact shift pattern of the job posting isn’t stated, since 70 hours isn't a whole number of 8-hour days. At those hours, actual base pay is about $69,415-$88,033 (midpoint $78,724), not the $76,852-$97,466 shown at the 2,015-hour standard.
- Quebec and PEI. No current public posting or agreement with a PA classification and a pay range was found.

United States (USD, 2,080 hr)

The West pays the most: its median midpoint is $64.38/hr against about $55-$61/hr in the other three Census regions. The West Coast (California and Washington) is a high outlier at a $75.25/hr median midpoint and $84.88/hr, median maximum.

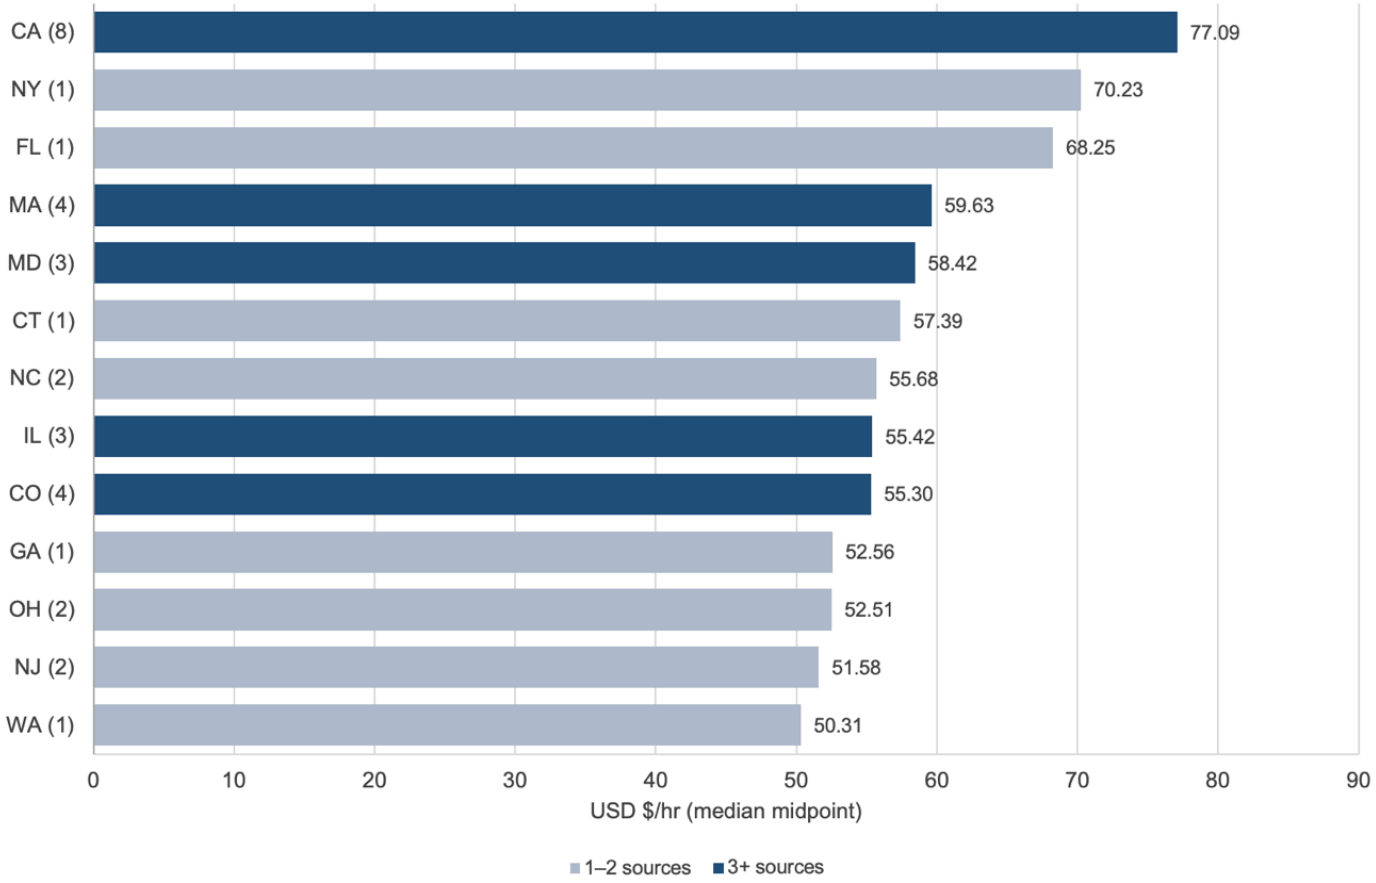

Figure 3. Median midpoint by state (USD $/hr). California leads among states with three or more sources. Lighter bars are states with only one or two sources, so those figures reflect individual employers rather than statewide rates.

Full min/mid/max averages and medians for every state are in Appendix C.

- California has the highest median midpoint of any state with more than one source.
- Union coverage is rare in U.S. PA postings.
- Per-diem and part-time postings are included where they state a base range (yearly wage was extrapolated from this part-time base range). Their ranges can differ from full-time pay at the same employer.

Caveats and data gaps

- Ontario sources dominate the Canadian national figure. Sixteen of the 24 Canadian sources are Ontario hospitals. Weighting each province equally gives an average midpoint of about $48.76/hr (8 provinces). That is lower than the source-weighted $49.83.

- Data current as of November 2026 where available. Rates from collective agreements use the current wage schedule. Rates from job postings reflect the pay range at the time of posting, which may date from October 2025 onward.
- Thin U.S. coverage → Texas, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Minnesota, Arizona and Oregon had no qualifying employer-posted ranges, because postings there were agency or travel contracts, "from $X" floors, or listed no pay. Non-qualifying postings were excluded.
- Comparisons are based on hourly rates (or extrapolated hourly rates) and not salary. Postings where the wage is listed as a yearly salary are not specifically noted. Keep in mind that positions listed with a flat salary rate may end up paying less than an hourly rate after accounting for shift premiums, overtime, etc. (e.g. when you work overtime in a salaried position, you do not get paid extra for staying late).
